

Reward Out for Return Of Stolen $15,000 Mss.

A fifteenth century manuscript, "The Book of Hours," written in Latin by Italian monks, has been stolen from the National Arts Club at 15 Grammercy Park.

All of the exhibits were owned by Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr, the German collector, who came to America to attend the Eucharistic Congress and there presented to Cardinal Mundelein several manuscripts of medieval popes. Dr. Vollbehr said the value of the manuscript was $15,000, and that he would pay $1,000 for its return.

While in Chicago at the Eucharistic Congress, Dr. Vollbehr met Col. Edwin Emerson, a member of the National Arts Club, who persuaded the collector to exhibit his books and manuscripts here before returning to Europe.

Tompkins Urges Naming Cropsey For Governor

In declining to accept the Republican nomination for governor of the state, Supreme Court Justice A. S. Tompkins of Nyack, in a letter to Chairman Morris of the state committee, urges that Justice J. C. Cropsey of Brooklyn be selected.

Chairman Morris, who returned to his desk at Republican state headquarters, in East 41st Street, yesterday, said the situation relating to the candidacy of Justice Cropsey remained unchanged.

This was understood to mean that Justice Cropsey still had under consideration the proposal that he become the Republican candidate, and that it remained for the party leaders to indicate their compliance with certain terms upon which he has conditioned his consent to run.

Cult Hypnotized Girl, Says Mother

ceived a letter in which she hinted at a terrible and almost supernatural power exercised over her by the cult. The letter was postmarked from Detroit.

"Shortly after this she was transferred to Cincinnati. It was at this time we were in the automobile accident, and she replied she could not come. I trailed her to Cincinnati later. I arrived a few days after Ruth was transferred to Louisville.

"I searched through several Mid-Western cities. In frequent letters she complained of long hours of work forced on her.

Appeal for Money

"On August 19 I received a telegram stating: 'Try and get me home. Send money or come after me.' I sent money. Western Union reported she had left Cincinnati, the place from which her wire had come. A later advice from the telegraph company was that the wire was being forwarded to Bound Brook. I came here."

The mysterious cult was expelled from Somerville some time ago, state troopers say, because it was a "common nuisance." The college exhibits a stern and forbidding countenance to the casual visitor and he is warned away. If he persists, he is treated with cold and silent contempt.
